Roald Dahl was a creative and brilliant writer and given he wrote many of his works for children, perhaps intended for them to be read aloud, by a parent or carer at bedtime, like I did for my son. We read several other of Dahl's books, but none ever struck me as quite so poetically flowing and pleasing to the ear (and tongue) as Fantastic Mr Fox.

Roald Dahl (1916-1990) was a British author and scriptwriter, and "the most popular writer of children's books since Enid Blyton", according to Philip Howard, the literary editor of The Times. He was raised by his Norwegian mother, who took him on annual trips to Norway, where she told him the stories of trolls and witches present in the dark Scandinavian fables.

Roald Dahl bibliography - Wikipedia

Roald Dahl was an English author, so the characters in this show speak in British accents. Dahl recognized that children see the world differently than adults, and that was often reflected in his writing. This story is told from Matilda's perspective, which heightens the cartoonish and sometimes frightening nature of the adults in the play.
